When you donate your organs, you give someone else the most precious gift—a chance to live. Nearly 70,000 Americans await life-saving transplants and another name is added to the national waiting list every 16 minutes. Most people are in favor of organ donation, but few have told their family. Since family members must ultimately sign consent for donation, it is essential that they know what their loved ones want.

Please talk to your family about organ donation... today.