Many families in America face a challenge everyday. They must feed three or four children with little or no resources. So, mostly they go hungry.

The face of child hunger in America is hidden, making it hard to believe that 12 million children in this country are hungry or at risk of hunger. However, the sad reality is that hunger disproportionately affects our nation’s children. Hungry children have a more difficult time learning in school, and chronic hunger can cause permanent damage to their mental and physical development. Child hunger also poses an economic threat by undermining educational investments and workforce productivity.

Though Feeding Children Better, ConAgra Foods has focused its long history of giving and channeled it to make a deep and lasting impact on an issue that is important to its consumers and communities.

What is ConAgra’s Feeding Children Better program doing?

• Providing kids with a safe nurturing environment that feeds the “whole” child.
• Streamlining the collection and distribution of donated food and getting it to those who need it faster and cheaper.
• Raising awareness about the hidden nature of childhood hunger.

Child hunger is preventable and solvable with collaboration from all sectors of society. Discover what you can do to help alleviate child hunger in your neighborhood or community.

The sooner you believe it, the sooner we can end it.
